(It is suggested that a pupil uses a workbook for problems and a different level for mechanical exercises if necessary. Usually, because of reading difficulties, the instructional level in problem solving is lower than the mechanical level. Waste of unused portions of workbooks can be avoided by not working directly in the books. For the primary levels a plastic sheet can cover the assigned page using a Scripto - all surface propelling pencil. A paper tissue will erase the work when completed. For the older pupils workbooks may be used as texts and the assignments attempted in regular exercise books.)
